Static Analysis Report

The report generated by IntelliJ IDEA can be found in the "Inspection Report" folder. You can view the report in a browser of your choice by double-clicking the "index.html" file. I viewed the report in Firefox 61 for Manjaro. All of the noted warnings originate from the test files, specifically occuring in places where the intended result is for the operation to fail. Due to this expectation, the results are never used, which has resulted in the warnings. Similarly, all the "typo" warnings originate from test files in which the intended result is for the interpretation of the file to fail due to misformated contents.

No edits were made to my source code as a result of this report.
